Motivational Speaker, Seminar Presenter, Consultant & Author

Tessa Hood's philosophy of Five Facets of A Living Brand makes a huge impact on individuals in business life - at whatever level - and can optimise company performance through strategically developing a company-wide 'great people' policy. The Living Brand improves and develops the reputation of individuals and therefore the performance and reputation of a business. Tessa is founder of www.changinggear.net - the international coaching consultancy with offices based in Smithfield, London and Surrey.

Biography

Following her initial career in her family-run hotel business, Tessa began her international career in the diplomatic corps, working alongside Ministers at the Court of Human Rights at The European Parliament in Strasbourg, France.

She then began a 30 year career as an international film and photographic advertising model, following which she set up a successful production company for European photographic advertising campaigns with major blue-chip clients. She now works as an internationally recognised expert on Reputation Management and Personal Branding for global banks, insurance companies, professional and service businesses, SME's and entrepreneurs as well as lecturing at leading International Business Schools on their MBA Programmes.
